Multimedia Critique

Directions: You will identify the types and media components of multimedia presentations available on the Internet. With your teacher's supervision, locate five Internet sites that contain multimedia presentations. Complete the chart below listing each site's Web address, the name of the person or company who created the site, the type of presentation found on the site, the media components of the presentation, and an analysis of the site's effectiveness. You may identify more than one example of media on a site. Your critique needs to include at least one example of each of the following media components: animated text, graphics, animation, sound, and video.

	Site Address	Site Creator	Type of Presentation	Components	Analysis
1
2
3
4
5					