

The Big Question

School-to-Home Connection

If there were another person who looked exactly like you, how would your family and friends know who was the real you? What is it about you that they would recognize? What interests do you have? What are your beliefs and values? All of these things—besides your good looks—help to make you who you are.

ACTIVITY

Directions Complete the chart to help illustrate who you are.

Height	Hair Color	Eye Color	Favorite Feature	Favorite Talent/Skill

ACTIVITY: Self Portrait

Directions Make a self-portrait collage to illustrate your characteristics. Use magazines and newspapers to find pictures or headlines that represent who you are as a person. Glue these to a piece of poster board or heavy cardboard.

ACTIVITY: Short Story

Directions Write a story that describes one event or experience in your life that has helped to define you as a person. First, make an outline of your story to help organize your thoughts and ideas. Next, write a rough draft of your story. After you have corrected any spelling, grammatical, or structural mistakes, write a final draft. If you wish, you might read your story to your class.
